

Bravida creates a Sweden organisation

Bravida's three Swedish divisions, North, Central and South, are being merged into a single Swedish organisation. The aim of this change is to strengthen the focus on governance, increase efficiency and profitability, and improve the conditions for ensuring a uniform range of services in all Bravida's markets.

Bravida's Sweden organisational setup will harness efficiencies and be structured based on a uniform country organisation.

The new structure will result in a one-off cost of SEK 20 million, which will be included in the results for Sweden in Q4 2025. In conjunction with the implementation, an additional one-off cost of around SEK 70–90 million is expected in 2026.

Mattias Johansson, CEO and Group President at Bravida, comments:

“The new organisational structure is a natural step in Bravida's continuing development. My aim is for Bravida to emerge from the recession a stronger company than when we entered it. The new structure provides a better basis for growth, improved governance and an acceleration of Bravida's strategy, while the one-off costs enable cost savings. I am convinced that this rationalisation will create higher margins and better conditions for growth and increased market share in the coming years.”

Head of Sweden will be Lars Täuber, who previously led the Division Central and most recently oversaw a turnaround in the Division South. The change came into force on 1 January 2026.
