

Bravida appoints new manager for the Special Projects - Project Management Office (PMO) business area

Martin Syberg is joining the company as the new leader of Bravida's Special Projects - PMO business area. Mika Sundholm, the former Head of Special Projects - PMO, will at the same time move to a new role as Senior Advisor to the PMO.

Martin Syberg has an extensive background in the property and energy sectors, as well as in infrastructure and other community-related construction fields. Martin was most recently at Sweco (formerly Metria), where he was Business Area Manager for Planning and Measurement.

Mika Sundholm, who has worked with major projects at Bravida since the start in 2000, and as Head of Special Projects - PMO, is taking on a new role in connection with the handover to Martin Syberg.

Special Projects - PMO at Bravida is responsible for running, managing and implementing large and complex projects at the Bravida Group. The E4 Stockholm Bypass project, data centres and the expansion of the Stockholm metro are some examples of projects with planning and execution of installations that are part of the business area today.

“Bravida is a leader in large projects, including those we are already carrying out and those we have a chance of winning in the future, and it feels exciting to be part of that journey. I look forward to working with the team, and all the competences that we have, to further develop Bravida's work with large projects in the best possible way,” comments Martin Syberg, the new Head of Special Projects - PMO at Bravida.

Mattias Johansson, CEO and Group President at Bravida, comments:

“I am very pleased to be able to welcome Martin Syberg to Bravida. He has exactly the right skills and background to continue developing our work with large projects. I would like to thank Mika Sundholm for his great efforts in managing large projects and look forward to continuing to work with him in his new role.”
